A big gust of wind hit Mom.

"It's a fact, we are going to get wet! We must act fast."

"For now, just put the big logs here, Max."

Mom had our map.

"We must find the exact spot to get picked up. We don't want to get left."

"Let's act fast," said Max.

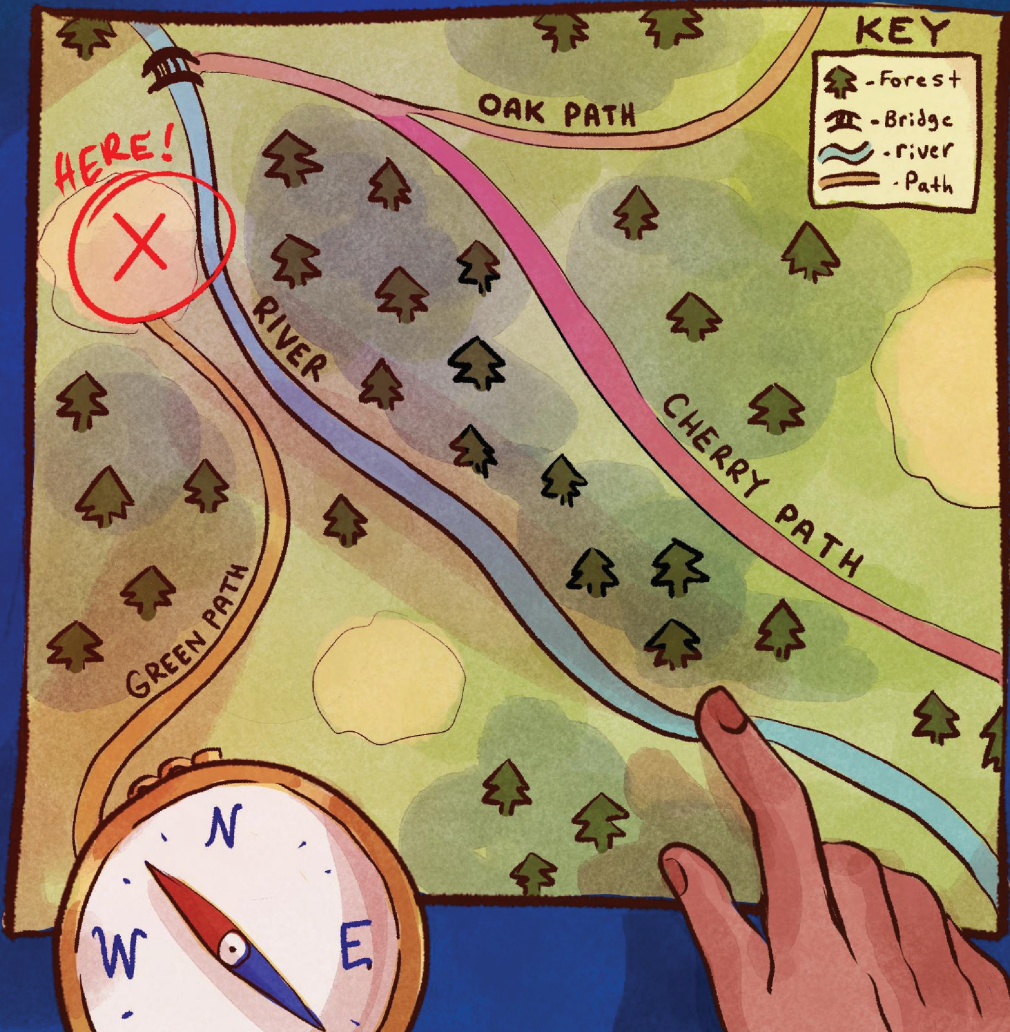

"We've a long trek west,"
said Mom. "Or we can construct a raft."

"Construct a raft!" Max yelled.

Mom put a hand on the map.

"We must cross the river here.
If it's too fast, we can adjust and adapt."

"This raft will be so swift! We can't fall off!" Max said.

He picked up logs and sticks to craft the raft.

"I went so fast, I just got a cut!"

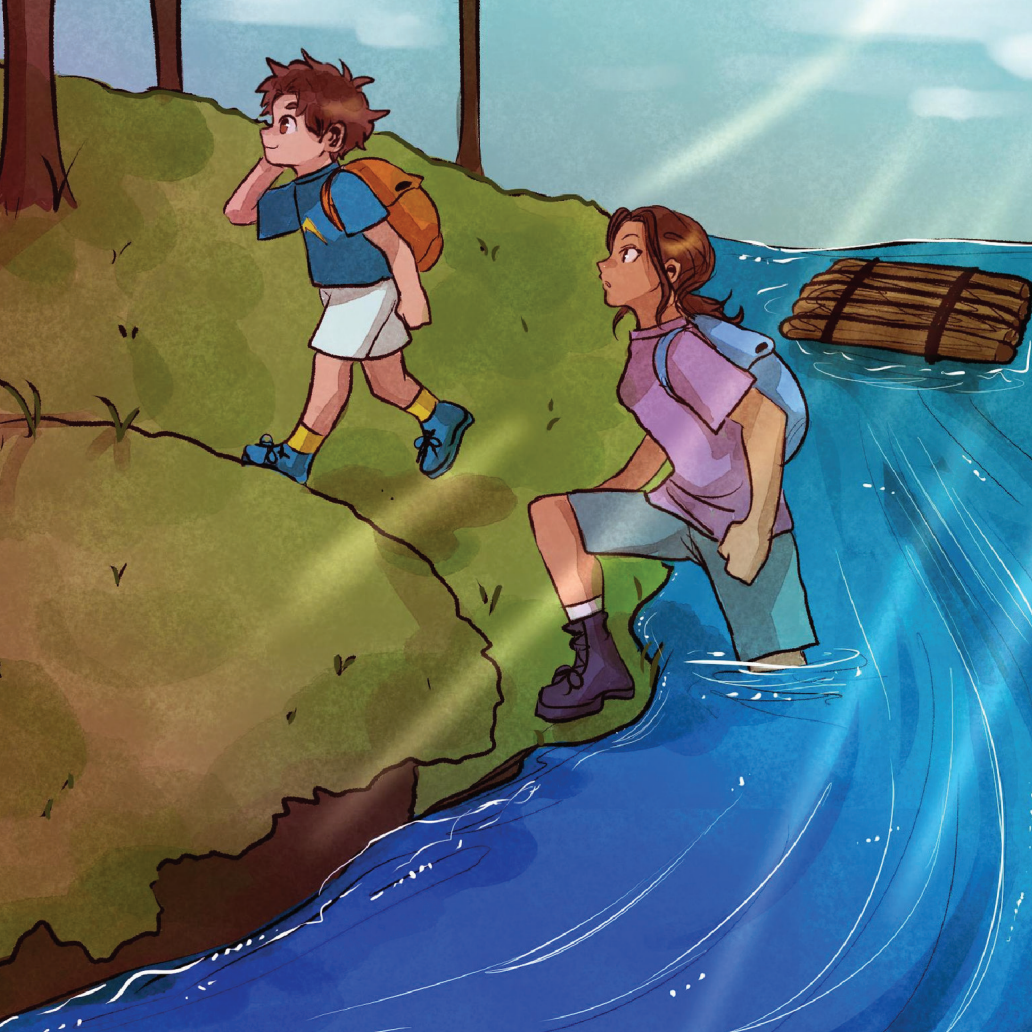

Mom acted fast!

"I have our kit, Max."

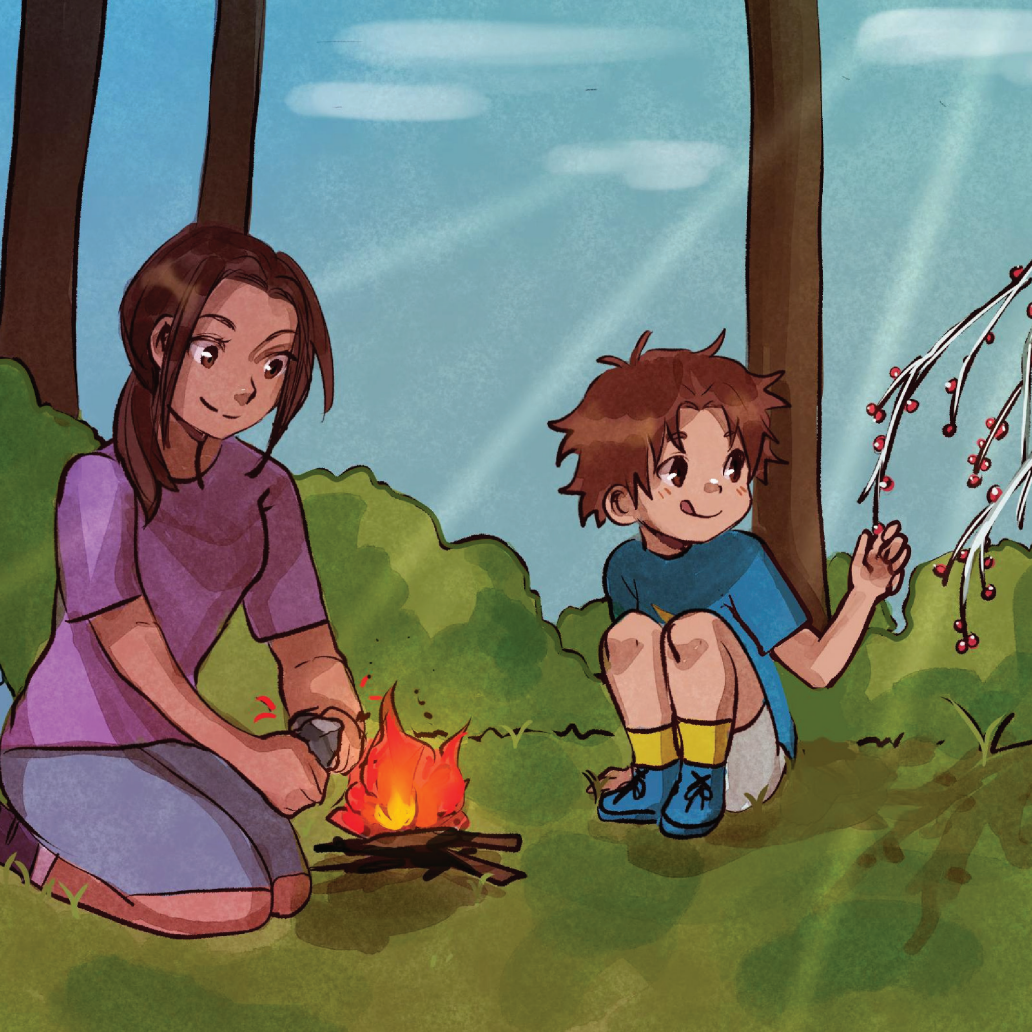

The raft went fast on the swift river. It went past objects. It swept Mom and Max past the spot where they wanted to land.

They drifted into a bank. When they went to get off the raft, they both fell in!

"Can I snack on this?"

"No! You'll get sick. It's a fact,
some plants are bad to ingest.
Just select a snack from the bag and rest. That's best."

"You did it!" said Dad.

"Mom kept me going," reflected Max.

"Now you can rest," Dad said.

"No," Max said. "At this hour, we'll ingest the best lunch. Fast!"

"That's a fact!" said Mom.
