Willow and Jay are going on a treasure hunt! First, they eat breakfast . . . steak and eggs.

"I'm ready!" says Jay.

"Great!" says Willow.

Jay and Willow bring their sweaters so they are ready for the weather.

What will they find?

Willow finds a feather already! The feather is soft and light like thread. She thinks the feather is greater than five inches long.

"Let's measure it!" says Jay.

It measures six inches!

The sun is breaking through the trees. Willow's head is feeling sweaty on the pleasant treasure hunt.

"I need to take off my sweater!" she says.

Jay is not thinking about sweat. Instead, he is looking in wonder at a heavy tree branch!

Willow wants to take a break for a healthy lunch. Jay spreads out a cloth in the meadow. They eat bread with cheese and fruit.

"I meant to pack drinks!" says Jay, sweating.

"They're already in your bag," smiles Willow.

Willow and Jay are ready to hunt for treasures again!

Willow finds spider webs as fine as thread! The webs are spread out over many dead leaves.

Jay dreads spiders! He looks for other treasures instead.

Jay hears steady pecking. A bird is breaking into a log with its beak. Its head breaks the wood fast. It's looking for bugs.

"I'll take bread instead!" laughs Willow.

Jay and Willow head home to get ready for dinner. They found such great things on their pleasant treasure hunt in the woods!
