Blair and Claire have a flair for making fun games with the funny sounds they hear. Each year, they go on a trip. They sit near the rear of the van and play "What Do You Hear?"

"I hear a weary grandma snoring," Blair laughed.

"I hear your chair squeaking every time we shift gears," said Claire.

Blair laughed and bounced up and down in her chair.

"I hear birds chirping nearby in the dreary sky." Blair pointed through the smeared window.

Claire told her to put down the window so they could hear.

"I hear a pair of dairy cows mooing in that prairie," said Claire.

"I hear an airboat near those trees," Blair replied.

"It sounds like the gears need a repair," Claire giggled.

"I hear Grandpa's hiking gear rattling in the rear of the van," Claire said.

"I hear a fly buzzing near my ear," said Blair. "Oh dear! I have a fear of flies!"

"I'm hungry!" said Blair.

"Don't despair! I have snacks. Be fair and share," Grandma replied.

"I hear someone crunching pickle spears!" Claire said to Blair.

"Can I have an eclair instead?" Blair asked.

"Get ready! Our last stop is near,"
Grandpa said.

"I smell someone smearing sunblock
on their bare legs, and I hear Grandma putting hairspray in her hair," Blair said.

They arrived and stepped out into the fresh air. Blair and Claire had tears in their eyes from laughing.

"I hear a lot of laughing!" Grandma said to Blair.
